

Hello XXXX,

We are incorporating a Seagrass REALM, an immersive business experience where participants work together to solve real-world challenges in a fast-paced, interactive environment into our “your special event here”

We are looking for a select group of sponsors whose products, services, or brands become part of the experience itself. Rather than placing a logo on a banner or program, your brand is woven into the story. Participants interact with it, use it to make decisions, and experience it firsthand.

It's a different kind of sponsorship because people don't just see your brand. They remember it.

REALMs are attended by corporate leaders, emerging professionals, students, and decision-makers in corporate, university, and conference settings, giving sponsors meaningful exposure to highly engaged audiences.

I'd love to share how your organization could become part of the experience.

Most sponsorships are seen. This one is experienced.

Best,
XXXX